NOTES ON ORTHOGRAPHY.

Every effort to preserve the original orthography has been made in transcribing this work. The exceptions are as follows:

The special Mayan letter which is represented in this work by an upside-down "c" is replaced with the common typesetter's substitute dz.

The use of a tilde over a vowel (~, for example ã) is common in this work, indicating that an n, or occasionally an m, follows the vowel. In the transcript given here the tilde is replaced by the notation [n] or [m].

The word yetel is frequently spelled y. or .y. In the transcript this is transcribed as shown in the text.

The first person plural pronoun ca, especially in those cases where this pronoun becomes a consonant in front of a noun or a verb which begins with a vowel, is often given in the text simply as c. In the transcript this is transcribed as shown in the text. However, in order to distinguish the pronoun ca from the consonant c in edited texts an apostrophe is often added. Thus, where the text gives cokol, an edited version would give c'okol, or where the text gives cah Lohil or Cahlohil, an edited version would give c'ah Lohil.

A NOTE ON WORD SEGMENTATION.

There are many instances when two or more words are run together, appearing to be a single word, and conversely some instances where single words are segmented. Whether the fault for this lays with the typesetter in Mexico, who undoubtedly had no knowledge of the Mayan language, or with Coronel himself, is impossible to determine.

An example of this conglomerating of words is to be found in the very first sentence of the Discursos:

Himac bin hahal ocçictiyol caix caputçihic, Lay ah lukullae,

Normally this would read:

Himac bin hahal occic ti yol caix caput çihic, lay ah lukul lae,

AL LECTOR:

Mvchas son las causas Christiano lector, que me han mouido a recopilar y enmendar estos tratados, como son. Que doctrina tan buena y espiritual (que religiosos doctos con diuino espiritu y zelo del bien de las almas tradugeron en esta lengua con que tanto fructo se ha echo en ellas) no andubiesen en cartapacios manuscriptos, donde se hallauan muchas mentiras sin poner las letras que se requeria para la buena intelligencia y pronunciacion de la lengua.

¶ Assi mesmo para que los principiantes en esta lengua, y en la administracion de los Sacramentos, hallen en que exercitar su buen espiritu, tomando de memoria platicas brebes de mucha doctrina, para persuadir a la virtud, y guarda de la ley de Dios n[uest]ro S. y aborrecimiento del pecado.

¶ Assi mesmo para que los ya, exercitados en doctrinar, tengan este tratado co[n] que facilmente puedan dar el pasto espiritual, a sus ouejas.¹⁸

¶ Este a sido el intento con que he puesto los ho[m]bros a este trabajo, no queriendo otro premio del, sino que se aprueche[n] todos para la buena administracion y enseñanza de los Indios que tenemos sobre nuestros hombros, holgaria que se rescibiese mi buena voluntad, y que no se reparase si estaria mejor dicho, desta, o desta manera, por actua o por passiuia, por auer tantos modos de hablar en esta lengua. Aduirtie[n]do que en lugar de la letra, tζ, va puesta esta, tz, por auer esta misma, tζ, en la lengua Mexicana, y en lo que se ha impresso, esta la tz en su lugar.

¶ Y si la curiosidad y elegancia no corresponden aqui, como la obra requiere por falta de mi Ingenio, y poca sufficiencia, solo ofresco mis deseos y le siruo con ellos, que es lo que deue estimarse. Y assi supplico, que considera[n]do el zelo de la obra, excluye[n]do los demas defectos, que en ella hallare, la reciba con las entrañas de amor que se le ofresco, y que darà el libro honrado, y mi trabajo premiado.

²³³Page 83r. Printer's notation: K. Note that the pagination jumps from 72v to 83r. From this one would assume that signature J, amounting to 16 pages, is missing. However, since the text seems to be sequential it appears that the printer made a mistake in both his signature designation and pagination. Part of the reason to believe that the text is sequential is that the letters on the lower right-hand corner of page 72v which give the first letters of the next page are Caho, which are those as shown at the beginning of page 83r. In the next signature, L, the printer noticed his mistake and the pagination resumes correctly.

It should be noted that the use of the Mayan language in the following is different in that the writer seems to have a wider vocabulary than the previous writers. Also noticeable is the slight change in spelling practices, with, for examples, ppetayen being spelled ppetayan and chanbel being spelled chanbil.

⁴⁸³The 1576 ms. reads a vich. For some unknown reason the Franciscan friars decided that the declension of ich is uich, a ich, u uich, c' ich, a icheex, u uichoob, whereas in the colonial literature, and as shown in the 1576 ms., the Mayan way of presenting this declension is in uich, a uich, u yich, c' uich, a uicheex, u yichoob. mentions this anomaly in his Arte, and gives the appearance of wanting to agree with the Mayan way.

⁴⁸⁴The 1576 ms. reads yn uik, in which the possessive adjective in is given in the 1576 ms. The lack of the first person singular possessive adjective in the Franciscan literature is another anomaly to be found in these works. However, in the Mayan literature there are examples of the first person singular possessive adjective both being present and absent, so it is not clear if at one time it was possible to decline a word which uses the u/y consonants without the first person singular possessive adjective. Today this is not possible, and the first person singular possessive adjective in must always be part of this paradigm.

⁹²⁶Appended to the Ticul Dictionary (pp. 290-291 in the Pérez 1898 edition) is a list of kinship terms which is obviously directly related to this Coronel list. This list is also appended to the Pérez ms. of the DESF (pp. 2-4 and 5-6 of a ten page insert), but somewhat in disarray. Given that the Ticul and DESF are basically the same dictionary as the Solana and the DMM, it is conceivable that this list was originally appended to this dictionary, and that Coronel copied it from that source.

⁹³¹Page 1. Printer's notation: Ajj. At the bottom of the first five recto pages of each signature there is the printer's notation to locate those pages. These notations are of the nature A, Ajj, Ajj, Ajj, Av. Thus, this being the recto of the third folio of signature A, there is the notation Ajj. The Doctrina has D (= 5) signatures at eight folios or 16 pages each, with the exception of signature D which has only four folios, giving a total of 56 pages. This is the next available page after the frontpiece in the Tulane photocopy, and is marked page 1 by hand on the photocopy. As noted above, it has the printer's notation Ajj. There should be a folio with the printer's notation Ajj, indicating that an introductory folio is missing.
